FORWORD

This historical brief is the second part of a project started by Sgt Willard in 1967 which was prompted by a multitude of requests for information regarding United States military units in the United Kingdom during World War II and since. In February 1967, Sgt Willard completed a brief which covered the United States Army Air Force World War II combat units that were based in the United Kingdom from 1942 to 1945. During 1945 all the remaining United States units in the United Kingdom were returned to the United States or reassigned to other countries and for nearly three years the United States had no military units in the United Kingdom.

During this period though, General Carl Spaatz and British Air Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder were worried about the fully armed Soviet military force that stood ready in the East while the West disbanded. They wondered what would happen if the United States found it necessary to deploy its long range B-29s to Europe. Not a single British airfield was equipped to handle them. To correct this, they decided informally that the RAF would prepare four East Anglia bases to receive B-29s—just in case. The Berlin Blockade of 1948 justified their decision and, at the invitation of the Labour Government under Prime Minister Clement Attlee, the first of many United States military units arrived in the United Kingdom on 16 July 1948. This informal invitation has remained firm throughout the years.

This historical brief lists all the United States military units that have been based in the United Kingdom from 16 July 1948 to 31 December 1967 and represents many hours of research. Sources for this compilation were the historical records on file in the Third Air Force historical archives.

Explanatory Notes

Installations. The majority of British airfields are named after the nearest village, town, or city to which they are (or were) located and are normally within a five mile radius of the community. The name of the installation is followed by the county it is in.

NOTE: Not all the locations listed are airfields; some are no more than a group of buildings within a community and used as operating locations for some activities.

Organizations. Each organization listed is followed by the major air command to which it is assigned. This is shown in () following the unit designation. Where the major command is not known or there was doubt as to which command a unit belonged, the command was listed as (Unk)—unknown. While the Seventh Air Division was in the UK, all SAC units were assigned to it for operational control and the bases to which they were assigned were considered SAC Bases. Nearly all USAFE units are assigned to Third Air Force for operational control; some USAFE units remain under the direct control of Hq USAFE. All units of other commands are under the direct operational control of their own command and are serving in a Tenant status in support of USAFE and SAC units. All Air Force organizations of Group level or higher are listed in all CAPS. Organizations that are indented under a group or wing are a part of that organization.

Dates. Where possible, the actual dates a unit arrived and departed a location is given. When only the month or year is known, the letter (c) precedes the month or year meaning that the organization arrived or departed sometime during the month or year listed but the actual date is not known, or that a unit was no longer listed at the location after the date given.

(D) or (M). Following the last date for each organization are one of these letters. For the purpose of this brief, the (D) indicates that a unit was either: deactivated, discontinued, redesignated, or the status is unknown. The (M) indicates that a unit moved to some other location or country.
